Date: 20th October 2019

Mamatva Kendra in Pune provides education to children from drought-affected regions. Since its inception, Udaykal Foundation has consistently organized various initiatives for these children.

As their exams concluded and Diwali approached, we continued our annual tradition of spreading joy by distributing festive sweets, greeting cards, and fragrant utne (traditional aromatic powder). Our team members regularly visit the center, fostering a sense of warmth and connection among the children.

Beyond material support, our focus remains on enhancing their education and well-being, ensuring they receive the best possible opportunities despite their circumstances. For many, celebrations at home are uncertain due to economic hardships, making this gesture even more meaningful.

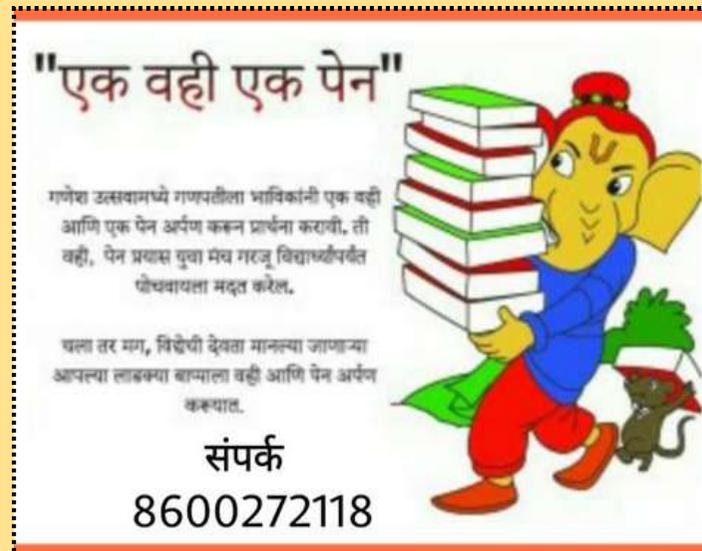

"One Notebook, One Pen" Initiative During Ganesh Utsav

Date: 1st September 2019

Udaykal Foundation is taking a meaningful step towards social impact by launching the One Notebook, One Pen initiative during Ganesh Utsav. Moving beyond traditional festivities, the foundation aims to highlight the importance of education and community welfare. Instead of solely focusing on installing Ganesh idols, this initiative encourages people to contribute notebooks and pens, which will be distributed to underprivileged students.

Through this campaign, Udaykal Foundation seeks to instill the value of education in young minds and provide them with essential learning materials. By integrating social responsibility with cultural celebrations, the foundation hopes to create a lasting impact, ensuring that children from disadvantaged backgrounds have the necessary tools to pursue their studies.

As Nilesh Bagul states, this initiative reflects the foundation's dedication to meaningful change. By supporting education, the One Notebook, One Pen initiative transforms Ganesh Utsav into a festival of knowledge, empowerment, and community progress.

Udaykal Foundation's Relief Efforts for Flood-Affected Regions

Date: 12th August 2019

In response to the devastating floods in Kolhapur and Sangli, Udaykal Foundation launched an urgent relief campaign to support affected families. The heavy rainfall submerged villages, cities, homes, and farmlands, leaving people struggling for food, water, and shelter. Rescue teams, including NDRF and local authorities, worked tirelessly to evacuate stranded individuals, while the crisis continued to escalate.

Understanding the immediate and long-term challenges, our foundation mobilized resources to provide essential supplies, including food, clothing, medicines, and hygiene products. We also anticipated post-flood challenges, such as food shortages and potential disease outbreaks, and planned for sustained relief efforts.

A donation drive was organized to collect vital items like blankets, dry food, clean water, and sanitary products. Additionally, financial contributions were encouraged to ensure swift assistance. The foundation, along with its volunteers and supporters, ensured that aid reached even the most remote areas.

Through this initiative, Udaykal Foundation reaffirmed its commitment to humanitarian efforts, emphasizing the power of collective action in times of crisis.

"Sahaj Jalbodh Workshop" for Water-Self-Sufficient Villages Successfully Conducted

The workshop empowered attendees with practical insights into water conservation and community-driven solutions, reinforcing Udaykal Foundation's commitment to sustainable development. The success of this initiative paves the way for future workshops, ensuring continued grassroots efforts toward long-term water sustainability.
